HOW DOES ZYTO WORK?

- Zyto technology works by using a process called bio-communication, where a hand cradle is used to send digital signatures (electrical impulses) through the body.
- These impulses represent different virtual items like food, supplements, or environmental factors. The body response to these signatures through galvanic skin response (GSR), which is measured by the device.
- The Zyto system interprets these responses to identify stressors in the body and determine which items or areas may need support.
